

Not So Basic Training

Not ANOTHER Meeting?! Meeting Skills Training

You know the meeting. Thirty minutes of stuff that could've been an email, one person who won't stop talking, and now you're behind on the actual work. Now multiply that by everybody in the room. Every week - money walking out the door.

Meetings aren't going away. Half are on Teams now, part of the room's remote, and somebody's AI is quietly taking notes nobody reads. More ways to meet, same old mess.

This session fixes the mess. Any format, any room, in person or on a screen.

What people walk out able to do:

- Show up ready instead of winging it
- Run an agenda people actually follow
- Keep it moving without steamrolling anybody
- Shut down the one person hijacking the room
- End on time with everyone clear on who does what
- Follow up so the meeting actually meant something

Do the math on one wasted hour times everyone in the room, every week. This session costs less than the meetings you're already losing. Let's fix your next one.

Run this for: anyone who runs meetings, sits through too many, or signs the checks paying for all of them.
